

“The interior of the House at Town Landing combines the warmth and ease of Scandinavian design with an elevated coastal aesthetic drawn from its island surroundings. A light tonal value in the primary finishes—pickled fir beams, classic birch flooring, soft gray walls, and timeless brass light fixtures—lends simplicity to the space, while pops of deep blue tie into the stunning ocean views beyond. Matthew Russ’s painting, Long Pond #1, complements the palette inside the home, while also enhancing the connectivity to the outdoors. The overall effect of the home’s interior is elegant, relaxed, and subdued, but as strikingly bold as the coastal Maine scene beyond.”
